FLAMEBUSTER®

Through the ages, fire has been one of man's most invaluable tools - and greatest dangers. In today's industrial world, that danger has intensified and diversified as an increasing array of materials, processes and environments can lead to combustion.

Never has the need for flame-resistant clothing been more important for health, safety and personal protection. Flamebuster® manufacture to specific designs in industries involving petro-chemical, electrical, oil, welding, fire services and molten metals.

A BURNING NEED

These days, it's all about risk management. Companies have obligations under Occupational Health & Safety regulations to mitigate risk and safeguard employees, especially in industries where severe or even fatal burns are an everyday possibility. Providing adequate protective measures in these circumstances can be a problem. However Flamebuster® provides a solution.

CRITICAL PROTECTION

Flamebuster® garments combine uncompromising quality, reliability, comfort and value. They are constructed from only the best certified and tested materials. The result is total peace of mind for those who wear Flamebuster®.

WHY WEAR FLAMEBUSTER?

Flamebuster® garments are accredited to stringent Australian Standards to ensure our workers stay safe, comfortable and protected at the most critical times.

When it comes to surviving an incident involving flame, heat or electrical arcing, it is imperative to have a garment you can rely on and one that has been designed and tested to perform according to the job at hand. Flamebuster® garments are specifically designed to provide protection for a range of environments.

Accidents may be unavoidable but Flamebuster® helps tip the odds in your favour. Everyday workwear does not always offer sufficient protection when exposed to hazards in the workplace. Typically, they are fabrics made from untreated or non-inherent fibres. These types of fabrics can ignite when exposed to flame or intense heat and will continue to burn even after the source of ignition has subsided, causing life threatening consequences to the wearer. Worse, the synthetic content can melt, causing severe burns when coming in contact with the skin. Flame-resistant clothing however, not only provides thermal protection at the exposure area, it will also self-extinguish after the source of ignition is gone. In other words, it has the potential to avert disaster.

WHY FLAMEBUSTER WORKS

The quality of flame-resistant clothing depends on the fabric with which it is manufactured and Flamebuster® garments are made with the best available. We offer a choice from the world's leading flame-resistant textiles, all of which are fully compliant with Australian and international safety standards. In terms of comfort, durability and protection, all textiles in our range is second to none.

FLAMEGUARD® - FR FABRICS

Flameguard® series of fabrics used in Flamebuster® garment are offered in FR treated and inherent styles. They are breathable fabrics with a higher UPF protection category.

All Flameguard® fabrics are tested in accordance to Australian and international standards for protection against fire related risks.

FLAMEGUARD® TREATED FABRICS

- The fabric is chemically applied with a fire-retardant treatment which is not harmful to the human skin.
- 100% natural fibres such as cotton or wool for comfort are generally FR treated. They can also be available with a natural fibre intimately blended with a small percent of fibres manmade fibres for extra strength and durability.

FLAMEGUARD® INHERENT FABRICS

- Inherent FR fabrics are specifically engineered through means of Nano technology and fibres that are naturally FR.
- They are light weight fabrics with strong characteristics.
- Inherent FR fabrics help to protect the wearer from body burn around potentially high-risk environments fire hazards in the workplace.
- It is applicable to end users most likely to be exposed to fire hazards in the industrial, electrical, emergency and firefighting industries.
- Inherent FR fabrics are not harmful to the human skin.

FLAMEBUSTER® - ARC FLASH PROTECTION

Flamebuster® garments are specifically designed for the demands of everyday workwear. They are highly visible flame resistant (FR) garments that are tough wearing, whilst not compromising on safety or comfort.

International, Australian and New Zealand standards including guidelines, are an integral part of providing protection to the work force. Flamebuster® garments have been designed to meet and exceed those requirements without compromising on value, comfort and quality.

The garments deliver personal protection to workers against the devastating effects of flash fire or arc flash events. Including, incidental exposure to naked flames. The high visibility features ensure that workers are always clearly visible, whilst being suitable for anybody who needs access to the correct level of protection. This especially applies for workers who are potentially working with live electricity or gas.

Flamebuster® garments used for the protection against arc flash are made from an assortment of Flameguard® inherent FR fabrics with the option of treated FR fabric should the request arise.

NFPA 70E

LEVELS OF FR PROTECTION

NFPA 70E®, STANDARD FOR ELECTRICAL SAFETY IN THE WORKPLACE®.

The focus of NFPA 70E is more about protecting the employee who is put at risk of an injury from electrical hazards. It is a standard to help employees and employers address the right levels of safety within the workplace.

Employers must therefore be knowledgeable of the requirements. We are providing a guide of what those levels of protection are and recommend employers to read and understand the actual requirements of NFPA 70E®, to ensure the appropriate level of safety is adopted.

Arc rated clothing that is designed for the protection against electrical hazards must have a High Risk Category (HRC) between 1 and 4. The higher the HRC the greater the protection.

High risk categories are determined through Arc Thermal Protection Values (ATPV), and those values define an Arc Rating. An arc rating is expressed in Calories/cm<sup>2</sup> (Cal/cm<sup>2</sup>)

The higher the Cal/cm<sup>2</sup> number, the greater the protection.

- HRC1 = ATPV minimum 4 Cal/cm<sup>2</sup>
- HRC2 = ATPV minimum 8 Cal/cm<sup>2</sup>
- HRC3 = ATPV minimum 25 Cal/cm<sup>2</sup>
- HRC4 = ATPV minimum 40 Cal/cm<sup>2</sup>

NENS09

ENA NENS 09-2014 NATIONAL GUIDELINE FOR THE SELECTION USE AND MAINTENANCE OF PERSONAL PROTECTIVE EQUIPMENT FOR ELECTRICAL ARC HAZARDS.

This is a guideline, not a standard. It is an industry-based document that has been set up by the Energy Network Association (ENA) and addresses a minimum level of clothing against electric arc hazards that may be encountered during the operation, construction and maintenance of electrical apparatus within the National Electrical Network Supply (NENS). ENA NENS 09-2014 is a guideline through a hierarchy of controls to assist employees and employers in making a knowledgeable decision of which clothing to select that provides the minimum level of protection against an arc flash event. It only applies to workers within the electricity supply industry who are required to work on or near low and high voltage electrical apparatus in Australia.

According to the guidelines garments which are considered as outer wear but may be worn in direct contact with the skin are base garments. A base garment is a coverall, a long-sleeved shirt and a trouser. The recommended minimum ATPV for base garments is 4 Cal/cm<sup>2</sup>. HRC1 Employers will need to be knowledgeable of the requirements and study the actual requirements of NFPA 70E®, to ensure the appropriate level of safety is adopted for their employees.

NFPA 2112

NFPA 2112 STANDARD ON FLAME-RESISTANT CLOTHING FOR PROTECTION OF INDUSTRIAL PERSONNEL AGAINST SHORT-DURATION THERMAL EXPOSURES FROM FIRE.

NFPA 2112 is intended to be referenced by those responsible of purchasing industrial FR work clothing. The standard provides a minimum requirement for personal protection when used in areas at any risk of short-duration thermal exposure from flash fire. Therefore, employers must be knowledgeable of those requirements. We recommend employers to read NFPA 2112 standard, to ensure the appropriate garments are chosen.

It provides information about design, construction, evaluation, and certification of materials used in the manufacturing of FR garments. It is not intended to provide personal protection against wildland firefighting, technical rescue, structural firefighting, proximity firefighting, or any other firefighting operations or hazardous materials emergencies.

METHODS FOR PROTECTIVE CLOTHING USED FOR WILDLAND FIREFIGHTING (ISO 15384:2003, MOD).

AS/NZS 4824:2006 specifies methods of test and minimum performance requirements for protective clothing to be worn in wildland firefighting and associated activities. Clothing that is mentioned in this standard is not intended to provide protection during fire entrapment. It only applies to the general design of the garment, the minimum level of performance for the materials employed and the methods of test to determine these levels. The standard does not address the protection against chemical, biological, electrical or radiation hazards. And it is not applicable to protection of the head, eyes, hand, feet and respiratory systems. These aspects may be dealt with in other standards.

Protective clothing for firefighters consists of one of the following:

- a coverall
- a suit provided with an interface area
- or several inner and/or outer garments designed to be worn together

We are providing a guide of what protection the standard can advise and recommend employers or end users to read and understand the actual requirements of AS/NZS 4824:2006, to ensure the appropriate level of safety is adopted.
